Project Manager

Elliot is an enthusiastic and inquisitive young professional with previous experience working in architectural practices across Staffordshire and Greater Manchester.

Elliot was a recent BArch (Hons) graduate before he joined DAY PM as an Assistant Project Manager. Passionate about design and the construction industry, Elliot is now strengthening his understandings and working face to face with engineers, Architects, and specialist consultants to help deliver schemes across the Northwest. His development since joining us has earned him promotion to Project manager which is a testament to his continued desire to learn and develop.

Through his degree, Elliot grew a complex understanding of architectural theory and technology which he has found to be a necessary resource when working on site or in design team meetings.
